Summary Report on One - Week FDP

Department of Electronics Engineering has successfully conducted a One - Week national Level Faculty Development Program on "Scientific & Technical Writing Tools" for faculty and research scholar during January 6 to 11, 2020. This FDP is sponsored and funded by Electronics & ICT Academy (an Initiative of Ministry of Electronics & IT, Government of India), PDPM IIITDM Jabalpur. The Department has received Rs. 1.5 lakhs for the conduction of the program.
The details of the FDP is as follows,

Title: "Scientific & Technical Writing Tools"

Objective: The purpose of this FDP is to help the participants to better learn about basic function of writing tools using LaTeX software and other modern tools. This would enable the participant faculty to disseminate the same to the students so as to enable them to produce scientifically crafted documents especially to PG and Research Scholar Students for writing their thesis work. This will also enable the scientist and engineers to use LaTeX software to give better solutions to their scientific work. The broad topics of the coverage are:

1. Importance of Scientific and Technical Writing
2. Introduction to LaTeX software and editors
3. Document classes, and writing mathematical expressions using LaTeX
4. Use of floats in LaTeX
5. Writing thesis using LaTeX
6. Inserting and writing bibliography/references in LaTeX
7. Writing books, reports and technical notes using LaTeX
8. Writing and editing journal articles using LaTeX
9. Introduction to Snag IT and Photoshop/Corel Draw for producing images/block diagram for scientific report
10. Importance of publications in reputed journals, and importance of indexing
11. How to write research proposal for funding
12. Patents and Copyrights Drafting
